

Interactive E-Learning Module

Operationalizing the Right to Development in Implementing the Sustainable Development Goals

Round Thirteen

24 July - 20 August 2024

Round Fourteen

30 October - 26 November 2024

INSTRUCTOR

Dr. Mihir Kanade

Head of the Department of International Law and Director of the Human Rights Centre, University for Peace, Costa Rica; Member, UN Human Rights Council's Expert Mechanism on the Right to Development.

INSTRUCTOR

Dr. Obijiofor Aginam

Director, UNESCO's Mahatma Gandhi Institute of Education for Peace and Sustainable Development, New Delhi, India.

The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, the University for Peace, and the United Nations University's International Institute for Global Health are jointly offering the eleventh and twelfth editions of the free four-week interactive and instructor-led e-learning module to train stakeholders on the normative, theoretical and practical importance of and mechanisms for operationalizing the Right to Development in the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals.

WHO SHOULD APPLY?

The course is intended for staff members of governmental, intergovernmental, and non-governmental organizations, human rights practitioners and defenders, development practitioners, academics, students, and others engaged in realizing of the SDGs.

Application Deadline: 18 July 2024

This course is offered free of charge.

info

hrc@upeace.org
www.upeace.org